Illustrator It is a vector-based graphic design program, which renders digital art into shape-based graphics. It has some of the same tools as Photoshop, but it is purely vector-based. Unlike Photoshop, Illustrator has no layer-based editing. The only editing choice is point-based drawing. However, it has many helpful drawing and editing tools, including dynamic line tools, gradient tools, shape tools, a brush tool, a distortion tool, and a few others that enable you to make edits without having to create a new layer. This lends itself to more cohesive editing. There are many free and paid tutorials that walk you through Illustrator's tools. Illustrator's features and price make it a good tool for beginners to explore. * Adobe Illustrator:

The present invention relates to a new and distinct cultivar of Portulaca plant, botanically known as Portulaca hispida, commercially referred to as a carnation and hereinafter referred to by the name 'Fisilideg'. The new Portulaca plant is a product of a planned breeding program conducted by the Inventor in De Lier, The Netherlands. The objective of the breeding program is to create new compact Portulaca plants with numerous attractive flowers. The new Portulaca plant originated from a cross-pollination made by the Inventor in January, 2011 in De Lier, The Netherlands, of a proprietary selection of Portulaca hispida identified as code number 1009081, not patented, as the female, or seed, parent with a proprietary selection of Portulaca hispida identified as code number 040525, not patented, as the male, or pollen, parent. The new Portulaca plant was discovered and selected by the Inventor as a single flowering plant from within the progeny of the stated cross-pollination in a controlled greenhouse environment in De Lier, The Netherlands in April, 2011. Asexual reproduction of the new Portulaca plant by terminal cuttings in a controlled greenhouse environment in De Lier, The Netherlands since July, 2011 has shown that the unique features of this new Portulaca plant are stable and reproduced true to type in successive generations.package credentials import ("crypto/tls" "crypto/x509" "net/http") // Client is the common interface all gRPC credentials provide. type Client interface { // Retrieve returns the credentials value, making sure they're // valid and sets the '*' fields in the data to point to the // copy. Q: How to generate an XML document of names and images from a given database structure I have a need to generate an XML document of the names and images of a given database structure. For example the structure of the database would look like this. Table 'names' Id | Owner | Name Table 'photos' Id | Photo | Image And so it keeps going with other tables for other forms of media. I want to generate some XML document, or perhaps an HTML document so that it will display a list like so... Name
